SEND NOTE TO SERBIA

Greece May Stay Out of War and Refuse to Allow Allied Troops to Cross Their Country As Result of Events.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, Oct. 6.—Word has been received from Athens that King Constantine has accepted the resignation of the Venizelos cabinet, which was unable to agree with the king concerning the country's step in the fast approaching Balkan crisis. The resignation of the premier and his associates came unheralded after the chamber of deputies had registered a vote of confidence in the ministry.

Official telegrams from Athens to the Greek legation here today said Premier Venizelos relinquished his office at 9:30 o'clock last night. No reason was given, though the former chief of opinion between the king and premier, resulting in the latter's temporary retirement from office, left little doubt that the present instance involves the now familiar issue raised by Venizelos insisting that Greece strike quickly in behalf of Serbia and the entente powers.

Bulgaria to Balk? It now seems certain that Bulgaria will align herself with Germany, Austria and Turkey. The matter doubtless will be brought to a head by the landing of allied troops in Saloniki. This procedure is regarded here as in effect placing Greece definitely with the entente powers, as she is considered as having virtually acquiesced in this counter movement against Bulgaria. It is assumed that the hostilities in this new field cannot be averted.

If Bulgaria joins the Teutonic allies, she will enter the war under conditions less favorable than a few weeks ago. The Russians, with reinforcements of artillery and increasing amount of artillery, are fighting harder blows daily, and the official German communications no longer register measurable advances. The situation in the west has reached a stage of renewed negotiations, following the recent allied offensive, and the Germans are still struggling to regain the ground lost.

The grand duchy of Luxembourg, according to Amsterdam advices, has protested to the entente powers against any raids over that country against German army headquarters.

French Minister's Note. Athens, Oct. 6, via Paris, Oct. 6 (delayed by censor).—The following statement was issued officially after the meeting of the cabinet at Saloniki: "The French minister delivered the following note to Premier Venizelos: 'By order of my government, I have the honor to announce to your excellency the arrival at Saloniki of the first detachment of French troops and to declare at the same time that France and England, allies to Serbia, sent their troops to help the latter, as well as to maintain the communications with her, and that the two powers count upon Greece, who already has given them so many proofs of friendship, not to oppose measures taken in the interest of Serbia, of whom the ally is also the ally.'

Premier Venizelos replied: 'By your letter of today, you have been so good as to inform me of the arrival at Saloniki of the first detachment of French troops and of the decision of France and England to send their troops to help Serbia, their ally, adding that the two powers count on Greece not to oppose measures taken in the interest of Serbia, of whom Greece is the ally.'

Means French Neutrality. In answer to your letter, I have the honor to declare to your excellency that, being neutral in the Balkan war, the royal government could not possibly authorize the procedure requested, for it constitutes a breach of Greece's neutrality, the more manifest since it comes from two great belligerent powers. It is, therefore, the duty of the royal government to protest against the passage of foreign troops across Greece's territory. The circumstances that these troops are destined solely to aid Serbia, Greece's ally, in no way modifies the legal position of the King's government; even from a Balkan point of view, Greece's neutrality could not be affected before the actual casus foederis, the entry of French troops and of the decision of France and England to send their troops to help Serbia, their ally, adding that the two powers count on Greece not to oppose measures taken in the interest of Serbia, of whom Greece is the ally.'

The French and British officers who have been landing have been received most cordially by the local military and civil authorities, and have been able to begin work immediately on their arrival. Public opinion is that it is necessary for the

The correspondent there of the Exchange Telegraph company says a number of transports carrying French troops entered the port at Saloniki this morning. He adds that the forwarding of French troops for Serbia is proceeding actively.

Resignation Unexpected. Athens, Oct. 6, via Paris, Oct. 6.—The resignation of Premier Venizelos was altogether unexpected. He conversed with the correspondent of the Associated Press at noon today in a manner which indicated the utmost confidence in the future course of the government.

Meanwhile King Constantine came to Athens from Tatoi, the summer residence of the royal family, and summoned the premier to the palace. After an interview in which there was the pluckiest speaking the premier proceeded to the chamber of deputies, announced that he had again disagreed with the king on the foreign policy of the country and presented his resignation and that of his cabinet.

This announcement led to scenes of wild disorder in the city. There is much discussion of the formation of a coalition cabinet.

President Announces He Will Give Suffrage Vote, But Not in Sense As a Leader.

Washington, Oct. 6.—President Wilson will vote for women's suffrage state constitutional amendment in New Jersey, his home state, at the special election October 19. He said today he would vote not as leader of the democratic party, but as a private citizen.

Mr. Wilson said he believed the question should not be made a party issue and should be decided by the state and not the national government. Secretaries Garrison, McAdoo, Redfield and Wilson, who will also vote on the question in the near future, have declared in favor of women's suffrage.

Dr. Shaw's Opinion. New York, Oct. 6.—Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National American Woman's Suffrage association, in a statement issued here today, expressed her gratification at the news that President Wilson would vote for the suffrage amendment in New Jersey and predicted that "nothing can stop us from carrying New Jersey now."

A statement from Mrs. Medill McCormick, chairman of the congressional committee of the association, predicted that the Wilson vote would be an announcement of vast importance to the suffrage cause throughout the country. The announcement did not come as a surprise, she said, to the officers of the association.

EXPLOSION INJURES TWO ON DESTROYER

Men Burned in Accident During Maneuvers of Atlantic Fleet Land.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 6.—The torpedo boat destroyer Cummings, on board of which two men were burned as a result of explosion and fire at sea yesterday, arrived here today. The men, George Trullio, of Genes, New Mexico, and Thomas J. Shea, water tender, of Patterson, N. J., were taken to the naval hospital where it was said they will recover. The destroyer was only slightly damaged. An investigation into the cause of the accident will begin today.

The fleet of battleships which came to Narragansett Bay yesterday, in the course of their operations, as part of the defending fleet in the war game, took to sea again during the night. They were the battleships Arkansas, Virginia, Louisiana, Nebraska, New Jersey and Rhode Island, and the destroyers Monaghan, Rowe, Tamm and Walke. It was understood that the Arkansas, which was reported last night as having had engine trouble, would be taken to the Newport navy yards for repairs.

NAVY BOARD IN SESSION AT CAPITOL

FAMED COMMITTEE OF SCIENTISTS HEADED BY EDISON IS GREETED BY PRESIDENT.

Washington, Oct. 6.—The new naval advisory board of which Thomas A. Edison is chairman, met for the first time here today to accept organization to lay plans for future work and for conferences with naval experts on problems before the navy department. Mr. Edison presided, and most of the twenty-one members of the board, as well as the advisory council of the department, were present.

Wilson Outlines Attitude. President Wilson outlined his attitude toward the national defense question today to the new advisory board of the navy. He believed, he said, the whole nation was "convinced that we ought to be prepared, not for war, but for defense, and very adequately prepared."

The president received the members of the board headed by Thomas A. Edison in the morning. A preliminary conference with Sec. Daniels and navy officials in Mr. Daniels' office. The board later went with Secretary Daniels to the naval proving grounds at Indianhead Md., on an inspection tour.

"There is very little that I can say to you," President Wilson said, "except to give you my very cordial welcome to your new duty. It is a pleasure in this association of laymen with the government. But what I do want to say is this:

"I think the whole nation is convinced that we ought to be prepared, not for war, but for defense, and very adequately prepared; and that preparation should be made not merely in technical matters, but in the army and navy alone can take care of, but a matter in which we must have cooperation of the best brains and knowledge of the country, outside of official service of government, as well as inside.

"For my part, I feel that it is only in the spirit of true democracy—that I want you to feel that those of you who are coming to the assistance of the professional officers of the government, that we have a very serious purpose."

ORGANIZE SOCIETIES TO BACK THOMPSON

Windy City "Dry" Open Early Action to Offset Any Move on Part of "Wetters."

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Fifty organizations, affiliated with the United Societies for local self government, called a meeting today to pledge their support to any action which may be taken to oppose Mayor Thompson's Sunday closing edict against 7,152 saloons of this city.

Eugene Pike, city comptroller, who managed the mayor's election campaign, admitted today that the mayor signed the "wet" pledge to not interfere with the saloons, but Mr. Thompson, according to Mr. Pike, attached his name under a misapprehension.

"He was told the Sunday closing law was a dead letter and nothing in the pledge called upon him to violate the law," explained Mr. Pike. "When the corporation council reported, however, that the Sunday closing law was perfectly valid and operative, there was nothing for the mayor to do but to perform his sworn duty."

OLYMPIAN SUSPECTS ARE AT WATERTOWN

Men Alleged to Have Held Up Milwaukee Road's Crack Train Escape After Gun Duel.

Watertown, Oct. 6.—A gun fight between the local police and three men suspected of having held up the Olympian express on the Milwaukee road near Minneapolis, a few nights ago, occurred here early today, the suspects being held in custody.

The supposed robbers were located in a box car. One of the trio drew an automatic pistol, but it failed to fire on the first attempt, and the officer escaped possible harm.

The Watertown police had been notified of the hold up of a citizen at Portage and had been asked to look out for suspicious characters. It is believed the men are part of a gang who have been robbing stage agents on various points of the line during the last month.

Fall in Identification. Milwaukee, Oct. 6.—Police at Watertown failed today to identify suspects arrested on the railroad and held at police headquarters here.

MORGANTHAU HOPES TO AID ARMENIANS TO ESCAPE TO U. S.

American Ambassador to Turkey Seeks Permission to Transport Persecuted Christians From Asia Minor.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Washington, Oct. 6.—According to reports which are deemed trustworthy, but which have been unconfirmed by the government, Henry Morgenthau, American ambassador to Turkey, has approached the Turkish sublime porte with an offer to transport to America the Armenians now being driven from the homes by the Turks.

"Horrified by the terrible massacres and cruelties which accompanied the removal of the Armenians from their homes, and by his helplessness to assist them through the usual channels," says a report coming from Constantinople through London, "the ambassador has offered to make himself personally responsible for $1,000,000 and to find other men in the United States to raise another $4,000,000, the money to be spent in emigrating the remaining Armenians to America."

In applying to America to help the suffering Armenians, Vahan Kurkjian, representative in the United States of the Armenian Benevolent Society, declared:

"Thousands Drowned Like Rats. 'Nearly every day between June 24 and July 23 Turkish sailing vessels loaded to the gunwales with Christian Armenians—men and women and children—left the port of Trebizond, in Asia Minor, and when they had gone a few miles from the shore dumped their living freight into the sea. In this manner 14,000 Christian Armenians, whose only crime was that they believed in Christ, were massacred by the Turks. This wholesale slaughter was supervised by Turkish soldiers and carried out methodically. The Italian consul general, from whose report these facts are taken, was so affected by the sickening savagery of it all that he could neither sleep nor eat."

"Yet this infamy, exceeding anything ever perpetrated in the history of mankind, was only an incident in the carefully planned massacre of Christians that has been going on steadily throughout Armenia since the beginning of May. Already out of a total population of not more than a million and a half of souls at least 400,000 people have been swept out, and an even more terrible fate has fallen on the younger women, who have been carried off in droves to the harems of the Turkish sultans."

"Thus with horrible refinements of cruelty, which make even the martyrdom of Belgium pale into insignificance, an extermination is being rooted out and exterminated. And what a nation! Armenia received the Word of God from St. Gregory the Illuminator and had adopted the Christian faith when England was still worshipping at Druid shrines, and two centuries before Clovis, King of the Franks, was baptized on the spot where the Cathedral of Rheims now lies in ruins. Armenia gave a saint and savior to the Christians and resisted undismayed the onslaughts of Timur the Lame, never wavering from the Christian faith to which he had kept through centuries of Mohammedan misrule and despite the bloodiest of persecutions."

"Shall what is left of the Armenian people be abandoned to their fate and left to perish? Will Christian America stand by in smug neutrality and see so dire a crime committed without raising its voice in protest? That is the question which faces Christian men and women in America today."

"The tragedy now being enacted in Asiatic Turkey is unparalleled in modern times. It is true that the scene is left to posterity. BIG CROWD ATTENDS

Y. M. C. A. RECEPTION

Members of Newly Organized Boys' Department Greet Visitors at "Y" Building Last Evening.

President Frank Baines of the Young Men's Christian Association officially opened the new department for the boys last night at seven-thirty. Fully fifteen hundred people attended the reception which was held in honor of the event. A committee of ladies composed of Mesdames C. R. Boarmore, J. B. Nichols, George Jacobs, Frank Doane, and F. C. Wollert received the guests and fifteen boys acted as ushers to take the visitors through the building, showing them the different departments. Never before have the people of Janesville taken so great an interest in this work. All through the evening crowds visited the building, looking at the different departments. The rooms were decorated with autumn leaves and flowers and in one corner an arch was made covered with autumn branches under which was the refreshment table. An orchestra of music and Stanley Harwood and William Davidson sang several vocal solos.

The boys' department will be a busy place this fall and winter as Secretary Center has the fall program completely filled. One of the first things that is to be scheduled is a pool tournament which will open Monday, Nov. 8. The entry list for this event is already completed. Ten classes for the study of the bible will be organized and one hundred members in the gymnasium, basketball, and social stunts. The practice of the minstrel show will begin in the near future. The management will co-operate with the parents and now and then the boys will be given for the fathers and mothers, and for the fathers and sons.

The rooms in the boys' department will be open in the afternoon for the school boys in the evening for the working boys. In a meeting it was decided that each member should try and bring a friend who was not a member and in this way help in the membership campaign. The reception last night was such a success that open nights will be held in the future at which non-members can attend.

BASKETBALL SQUAD IN FIRST PRACTICE

Ray Edler and Victor Hemming of Janesville at First Meeting of Badger Athletes.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Oct. 5.—Aspirants for the Wisconsin varsity basketball squad for the coming season, including three Janesville and fifty other candidates, reported for the initial practice of the year last evening at the gymnasium under the personal direction of Coach Meenwell. Lewis and Haas, forwards, and Smith and Olson, guards, on the 1914-15 team, were the veterans of the squad. The team, forming an excellent nucleus for the season, will practice this winter. Lange, center, was graduated last June. New material is the best in several years. As the center position is open, a close fight will be made by the prospects, including Chandler, center on last year's freshman team, and Carlson, another freshman center last winter. Smith, veteran guard, will not get into a suit until the gridiron season is over, as he will probably play in the regular varsity backfield this fall.

Among the ineligible at practice last night were Ray Charles Edler and Victor Hemming, both Janesville athletes, and students at Wisconsin this year. Means are back and Hemming is a sophomore. Both men will be eligible for the varsity five next year, and in the meantime will be given training in preparation for next season. Means and Hemming undoubtedly use them in practicing against the first five this winter.

NOT GUILTY METHOD

IN COURT CHECKED

Otis Walkley Wanted a Trial and When Offered One Changes His Plea.

The "not guilty" system of escaping punishment for intoxication broken in the municipal court at Janesville when Otis Walkley was arraigned for an offense alleged to have been committed on September 30th. For some time past offenders who appear before the municipal court at regular or irregular intervals have been employing a practice of entering a plea of not guilty when first arraigned.

No matter if the police had to employ an automobile to bring in an arrested person who was too intoxicated to walk, this same offender after spending the night in jail would appear in the municipal court, plead not guilty and demand a jury trial. Usually he went down to jail for three or four days and when arraigned again would stick to his plea. Rather than prosecute the case, at an expense to the city of $10 to $15, the court usually was dismissed or the case adjourned from date to date with the offender given his liberty until finally the case would be dropped on the ground of non-appearance.

This morning when Walkley came before court and still insisted he was not intoxicated and wanted a trial, the court made preparations to give him a jury trial. The jury was called and went out to obtain witnesses and this method had its effect. Faced with the prospect of really going to trial, Walkley changed his plea of not guilty to guilty and was fined $15. In default of a fifteen dollar fine, he also took the pledge for a year.

Yesterday afternoon, Thomas Hefner, head man of the "not guilty" case, was arraigned and he took the pledge, his case being adjourned for a week.

SALTS IF BACKACHE AND KIDNEYS HURT

Drink Lots of Water and Stop Eating Meat for a While If Your Bladder Troubles You.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will thank you.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

CROWNHART SPEAKS AT MEDICAL MEET ON LABOR MEASURE

Gives Address Before Wisconsin Medical Society at Milwaukee.—Effect on Compensation Laws.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 6.—In speaking before the meeting today of the Wisconsin Medical Society, C. H. Crownhart did not apologetically medical profession. He did, however, pay a tribute to the physicians for their unselfish helpfulness in making a success of the Wisconsin workmen's compensation law, which was the first in the United States. Mr. Crownhart, as former chairman of the Industrial Commission for four years, introduced the doctors into the inner chamber of the deliberations of the commission which administers the compensation law. He particularly upon the proper attitude of the physician who attends an injured working man, Mr. Crownhart said:

"We frequently find a sort of callous feeling growing up toward the injured workman by doctors, adjusters and employers. The injured man may be a hunkie, a 'dago,' a wop. He may be poor and ignorant; he may be uneducated. Such are these are found doing the work necessary for his wants. Yet have these men love of life; never feel pain; capacity to suffer. We must remember that the same law—same measure of care—protects and ministers unto them as to others more fortunately situated."

Few Felon Hurts.

The former industrial commission chairman related a few instances in which workmen had attempted to collect compensation by pretending that they had suffered injury. These instances, he said, were rare.

"The true malingering is a fraud," said Mr. Crownhart. "He knowingly attempts to deceive. The physician helps in a large measure solve the problems of the malingering. He must study the case and be able to determine the truth. He is a bold man that will try to deceive his doctor if the doctor knows his business and knows his man."

"The commission feels that the employer, for his own protection, must employ a good physician to attend injured employees. Doctors who do not come up to the standard should be weeded out. The industrial commission has had great help from the medical profession. It has made its rate of remuneration very modest but such has been the professional desire to be of service to the state that only one surgeon has declined to assist the commission."

"The relation of the physician to the injured workman when the physician is paid by the injured workman's employer, was discussed by Mr. Crownhart."

Company Physician.

"How does the fact that the employer hires the doctor, change, if at all, the doctor's relation to his patient?" he asked. "The commission has ruled that the doctor should maintain toward the patient exactly the same confidential relation that is vouchsafed to any other patient. In no case is he to be a spy or a traitor. The employer is concerned in having his man get well at the earliest possible time—but the patient is likewise concerned. Under no circumstances should the doctor forget his ethical relation to his patient. Some insurance adjusters have been bold enough to suggest the treatment might be considered preferable to prolonged treatment, because cheaper. No greater insult could be offered to an honorable physician."

Law Is a Success.

"The compensation law has been a great success. Yet it is in its infancy. Its scope will be enlarged until sick benefits, maternity benefits and old age pensions will be considered as a public investment instead of a public calamity. These things have long been in practical effect in the most efficient country in the world, that country's efficiency and vitality. As these humane steps are taken, doctors of medicine become more and more the agency of administration of the law. They will share directly in the benefits. I appeal to the doctors to study the principles of the law and to help build up the intelligent public sentiment that is necessary to precede enactment of any good law."

MANY VISITORS WILL HEAR FAMOUS SINGER

Expect Many Out of Town People to Attend Opening Recital of Apollo Club on Friday.

From indications the opening number of the Apollo club recital, the coming Friday night, there will be many out of town people present to hear Frances Ingram, the wonderful prima donna contralto, who is to appear before the club that evening.

Miss Ingram, it will be recalled, was one of the principal artists in one of the three big recitals given in Beloit last year, which was heard by a number of Janesville people.

In the Chicago Tribune a short time ago appeared the following notice concerning her appearance in Chicago: "It was in this section that the sensation of the evening took place. The contralto, Miss Frances Ingram, was the cause. To her was given the only really dramatic part in the composition. She impersonated the mother trying to remember her children by—if it be only a grave. Miss Ingram sang the part with extraordinary fire. Her voice is of unusual richness and she knew how to make it effective."

Mayor Gus Baxter, who has moved to Chicago, tendered his resignation to the city council Monday evening, the same being accepted. Brodhead's new postmaster, who was also city treasurer, also tendered his resignation which was also accepted. Under the law a postmaster can hold no other position. O. L. Woodling, for many years street commissioner, handed in his resignation; the same being accepted. These vacancies will be filled by the council at its next meeting.

Mrs. Jesse Shaft and Miss See Hart visited in Janesville Tuesday afternoon.

Their Makeup Must Differ.

One drop of petrol will kill a wasp instantly, but if applied to a bee or a fly it will be quite ineffective.

Brown Spots on Old China.

The beauty of old china is often destroyed by brown spots which appear on the surface, says the Toledo Blade. An effective way to remove these is to bury the dish in the earth, covering it completely. The darker spots require more time to remove them than the lighter ones. This method will not harm the most delicate china.

Economy in Gas.

When I have a couple of hours' ironing to do, or I have meat or vegetables to cook which require two or more hours' time, I put a teakettle of water on the unlighted burner next to the one I am using, so that when my ironing or cooking is done I have a teakettle of almost boiling water without burning any gas for that purpose.—Exchange.

BITTER ARRAIGNMENT.

Former Governor Hoard takes a decided rap at Senator La Follette in a recent editorial which he quoted from the Outlook and comments upon it. Hoard knows that he is talking of the seldom misses the mark, overshoots the target or forzes his approach. When he says that the friends and adherents of Robert M. La Follette are especially invited to read what the Outlook has to say concerning his latest demonstrations of his utter lack of statesmanship in his passage of the shipping bill which has driven all American ship owners on the broad seas to dispose of their ships. The Outlook quotes a letter it recently received from a well informed observer in Yokohama which is as follows:

"We live in exciting times, what with the funeral of the Pacific Mail and the farewell of the American flag in the Pacific. Now, the Outlook says that such a thing could or would really happen. American common sense or pride would save things at the last moment was our belief. Even the Japanese government would not believe it, and sent an official to the Pacific Mail agent in order to guarantee the probability of the truth of the story. And you should hear the American merchants rave and rage! Cargo space is hard enough to get over here now, and the Japanese ships naturally hold space for Japanese shippers first. And the hundreds of tourists who are coming out this fall, and the mails for us and Manila! Even the state department's dispatch box will go by Japanese ships hereafter! The British are unsparing in their criticism of American common sense; and already certain cheap Japanese jingoism say, 'You see, the Americans are afraid of us; they can't compete with us, they withdraw for fear of trouble!'"

No one ever yet accused La Follette of having common sense. He has done nothing but damage to every substantial interest that he ever put his hand to in the way of legislation. The reason for this is that he is a demagogue. His sole purpose when he comes for anything is "How can I stir up a riot, or get my political friends in mind, no matter how plausibly he might appear to plead the cause of the people. Had he possessed common sense he would have foreseen the damage his bill would do the American shipping interest. It was a grand stand play for politics sake with him and he got caught at it. Like the bull in the China shop he has smashed more crutches than his hide is worth and yet we are told he is going to try to persuade the voters of Wisconsin to send him to the senate again for another six years of destructive work. Can you put your finger on a single thing La Follette has ever done in the senate that was of any good to the people?"

THE Y. M. C. A.

The "Auto Race Membership Campaign" is on at the Y. M. C. A. and what does it mean? Simply this: that the citizens of Janesville must get back of the association and assist in its effort to increase its membership sufficiently so that we shall not suffer by comparison with the associations of other cities of our size in the state. There are five other cities of about our population in Wisconsin that have associations that number in membership from seven to ten hundred, and one or two of them have reached beyond the thousand mark at times. This is but an indication that when the proper support is given the Young Men's Christian Association becomes an important factor in the life of any city.

Janesville is a city that is noted for its thrift, industry and commercial rating. Its business houses command the respect of all who in any way come in touch with them. But back of our whole life as a city, commercial, social, political or whatever, and supporting it always, stands our moral life, and by the side of all of our commercial institutions, and marked by the same degree of success should stand our Y. M. C. A. holding up its head with equal dignity and being just as truly representative of our whole city life as any of these.

AN EQUITABLE PLAN.

The plan of the city commission to do away with the various ward funds and assemble them into two funds known as the east and west side, for caring for the streets, improvements needed, and other necessary work, is a step in the right direction. It might perhaps have been better to make it one general fund and draw from that as needed, but if the council desires to experiment with two, it is an advancement over the old ward fund idea and should be welcomed by taxpayers generally.

Of course there will be opposition. No one expects that any movement made by the present commission will suit the means opposed to the plan of the commission form of government from the beginning. Who saw in the selection of three commissioners a decrease in the special privileges awarded to a chosen few under the old ward councilman plan. These men have not been disappointed in their prediction for the city commission is impartial in its judgments, and as far as can be seen, plays no favorites.

The old ward fund idea, a legacy of the former system of government, has been a serious handicap to the administration of civic affairs. Street Commissioner Goodman would have done much more to certain streets had he not been hampered by the ward fund. The council would have ordered many more improvements, despite the wet season, had it not been for the ward funds. One ward almost bankrupt. One ward floating in affluence. It was not an equal distribution and the council is wise in making two departments if they could not see their way to make one budget of the whole. In all earnestness the question of street material should be taken up most seriously. It is an important item. The rock obtained from the quarry operated by the city, does not seem to stand the test of time as it should. Permanent improvements have proven themselves merely temporary ones and it would be cheaper in the end by far to get a good street material from outside than waste money on a municipal plant that does not deliver the goods.

But this is germane to the question at issue. It is hoped the taxpayers will appreciate the efforts of the council to work in their best interests and heartily support the measure that will simplify the problem of street improvement to a minimum, make the work of the street commissioner easier, and give better results. Speaking of the streets, the Gazette can not forbear to express its admiration for the work that the present street commissioner, P. J. Goodman, has accomplished this past summer, under most adverse conditions. It would not be true to say that he did any work, even repair work and Mr. Goodman deserves great credit for what he has accomplished.

Republicans need not think they are going to have a walk-away this next presidential election for they are not. It will need some mighty good timber and some carefully worded platform from the Mexicans will take to do any work, even repair work and Mr. Goodman deserves great credit for what he has accomplished.

It is a grand inducement to offer a recruit to the army or navy of the United States to announce to them that they can enlist and be sent south where the Mexicans will take to do any work, even repair work and Mr. Goodman deserves great credit for what he has accomplished.

War has its roots to dig itself out of when it comes right down to it. Just stop and think how hundreds of thousands of millions if you please, lived during the past twelve months in hovels that would make the dugouts of our pioneer days look like palaces to the poor soldiers fighting for king or emperor, or republic and country.

This is the time of year they talk about the "autumn October" and it would be better to utilize some of the tons of apples that are on the ground and gossip about a few gallons of good old apple cider again if the pure food laws did not prohibit making the cider so it would not turn into vinegar within a few days.

No one would be surprised if President Wilson called the United States senate into session before the end of the present month. There are many questions the president could well afford to find out the opinion of the people as a whole upon before deciding them definitely.

The Y. M. C. A. campaign is on. Do not forget and register your names among those who are going to help boost the city. It is something everyone can take personal pride in—this Y. M. C. A. of ours, so do not be backward about showing your appreciation.

Think of it! Bryan has not made an official complaint in a week. It is something to be marveled at. Since he retired from public life the business world has felt much more satisfied than it did previously.

Now that the fad for appendicitis is waning the surgeons have discovered that there is great danger in the pancreas. Anything to use a knife and separate the victim from a few dollars, eh?

Governor Philipp is pretty heavily through with his fair campaign. He needs a rest from this strenuous work of explaining why the legislature did not do its duty.

No one really blames the allies for refusing to continue to occupy the open-faced burrows exposed to the weather which they have for the past twelve months.

Foreign nations fear Uncle Sam is becoming too belligerent. The Rockies at Ft. Sheridan take on an awful warlike look after two weeks in the open.

Winter is coming on and the clothing workers had to strike. Just as if times were not hard enough without adding to the existing conditions.

Russia does not need much strategy when it has plenty of marshes at hand to utilize as traps for the foe, following up a skillful retreat.

Another slide at Panama proves that the soil of South America is just as resolute as the people who inhabit it, no matter under what regime.

SNAP SHOTS

Without going into the moral ethics of the matter, the fact remains that the only way the average man can get anything out of politics is by selling his vote.

The man who neglects to look in the glass in the morning can achieve the same general depressing effect by gazing intently at his photograph.

No matter how many free blades you get with a safety razor, it isn't enough.

The first thing a man looks for is a place to sleep. The first thing a woman looks for is a mirror.

A woman can change her name at any time, but a man is compelled to wait until the legislature convenes.

A man should not be judged entirely by his ability to assimilate punishment. His attitude in the face of victory is the better test.

The man who refuses to do it in politics will often "grandstand" a little for the delectation of the women.

One of the recent poems is called "The Wife of the Red Haired Man." If you are making a crazy quilt, this undoubtedly belongs in it.

In Missouri recently a cat ate canned salmon and died. You now know what to do with the canned salmon.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

The Quiet Life.
I do not want to buy a king.
Or potentate or anything.
Like that. I do not want to fight.
I want to get my sleep at night.
I want to go home and sit at ease.
And hold my kid upon my knees.
And look out on my garden plot.
And be contented with my lot.
I can take care of a picture show.
I would not be nervous when I go.
Or fear some titled enemy.
Will drop a lyddite bomb on me.
I get no diplomatic note.
Which kills me up and gets my goat.
No murder in my soul.
For world dominion's not my goal.
I'm happy as a common loach.
Who's got a home, also a job.
I would not trade my state of mind.
With anyone of royal kind.
No blood of infants stains my hands.
I have invaded no one's lands.
I would not trade my old felt hat.
For all the caps and helmets that
Are worn in any crazy realm.
That seeks to slay and overwhelm.
Gold braid and clanking sabres purses.

To me are merely useless junk.
I would not trade my little cot.
For any castle they have got.
I would go forth grudging for the fray.
To turn and loot, outrage and slay.

Some Pertinent Questions.
The Alba (Rich) people have got to be good because the paragrapher of the Review is certainly on their trail. This week he asks:

Who got "stewed" at the Republican banquet?
Who is the Alba lady that has a postoffice box in a neighboring town—and why?

Do some of the Alba business places carry so much insurance that the owners don't want a fire department organized?

Who is the local swain that lets his lady friend pay the bills when out together?

Who called on his lady friend and found her on another man's lap?

Guess Not.
Dear R. K. M.: Tell me was there over a problem that wasn't knotty? Or a sale that wasn't unimportant? Or a summer resort that wasn't enchanting? Or a study that wasn't a brown one? B. M.

THE FINANCIER.
"He had a secret all his own.
He stood there in the loft alone."

From "Kumar Oyam."
All dressed up for Gerie Sullivan, bean's party, Ferd Lampwick walked jauntily down Northlight avenue, swinging his cane.

As Ferd was passing Nickwurst's cigar store, Cory Vappo entered the in-and-out, Surance Building and began to climb the stairs. In one closed hand he carried half a pint of damp mud.

Up he climbed. Up, up, and up. Ferd Lampwick was passing Gugelmeyer's chewing gum slot machine as Tony reached the landing of the eighteenth floor.

He had reached the twenty-sixth floor by the time Ferd, who was rather a slow walker, was up to McStable's garage and soda fountain.

Up, up, he climbed. At the roof at last, thirty-seven stories above the street, just as Ferd was passing the building. He could see Ferd's brightly shined shoes gleaming below. Zum! The half pint of mud found its mark. Both shoes a mess!

Like lightning, Tony sped down to the street, his business box swinging behind him, and overtook Ferd at the corner.

"Shine, mister!" he said.
"Why yes," replied Ferd. "What a coincidence!"

announces the opening of the season's concerts and recitals—Five in Number.

The opening number will be

FRANCES INGRAM

Prima Donna Contralto of the Chicago and Montreal Opera Company.

ARTHUR FRAM

Pianist.

No contralto in recent years has made such phenomenal success as has Frances Ingram, nor has any contralto, in recent memory, risen so quickly to a place of prominence. Miss Ingram made her first success with the Chicago-Philadelphia Opera Company during the season 1912-13. The following season she scored a complete success as one of the principal contraltos of the Montreal Opera Company. Now for the season 1915-1916 she is re-engaged for important roles with the Chicago Opera Company, although a part of the season will be devoted to concert, in which field Miss Ingram has become deservedly popular.

Gifted with one of the most beautiful contralto voices extant, and with a personality at once charming and magnetic, it is easy to understand why Miss Ingram has made for herself so quickly a firm place in the affections of American music-lovers.

GERMANY PROMISES TO PAY INDEMNITY

MRS. WOODS WILL RECEIVE PAYMENT FROM GERMAN GOVERNMENT FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH.

HAVE MADE DISAVOWAL

Announcement of Agreement Made in Last Night's Gazette is Further Borne Out by Bernstorff's Note.

Friends of the late Dr. Edmund F. Woods were pleased to read the brief announcement in the Gazette of the agreement made by Germany to pay indemnity to the heirs of the late Dr. Woods, who was killed in the sinking of the Lusitania.

The satisfactory outcome of the situation which threatened to involve Germany and the United States in serious complications, was indicated in a letter received by Secretary of State Lansing from Ambassador Von Bernstorff, which was published this morning and which reads as follows:

"Von Bernstorff's Letter."

"Pleased by the desire to reach a satisfactory agreement with regard to the Arabe incident, my government has given me the following instructions:

"The orders issued by his majesty the emperor, to the commander of the German submarines of which I notified you on a previous occasion have been made so stringent that the recurrence of incidents such as the Arabe case is considered out of the question."

"According to the report of Commander Schneider of the submarine which sank the Arabe, and his affidavit as well as those of his men, Commander Schneider was convinced that the Arabe intended to ram the submarine."

"On the other hand, the imperial government does not doubt the good faith of the commander of the British officers of the Arabe, according to which the Arabe did not intend to ram the submarine. The attack of the submarine was undertaken against the instructions issued to the commander. The imperial government regrets and disavows this act and has notified Commander Schneider accordingly."

"Will Pay Indemnity."

"Under these circumstances, my government is prepared to pay an indemnity to the American lives which, in the case of the Arabe, have been lost."

"I am authorized to negotiate with you about the amount of this indemnity."

"The amount of indemnity will be determined by negotiation, according to the Washington dispatches. The ambassador desires to put this matter before an arbitration tribunal and before the United States and Germany there are precedents in American procedure for accepting such a proposal. However, the President is unwilling at the present time to arbitrate the value of the life of an American citizen, and the chances are that the German government will be urged to pay a stated sum."

"The adjustment of this question presents some little difficulty, since the amount determined upon will be regarded by the United States as fixed for the present. Germany must make for the hundred odd Americans who were drowned when the Lusitania was destroyed."

VARIOUS TEAMS ARE MOST ENTHUSIASTIC

Y. M. C. A. AUTOMOBILE RACE CONTINUES TO ATTRACT ATTENTION.

MEMBERSHIP GROWING

Janesville, However, Drops in the Inter-City Race—Strenuous Day Planned for Friday.

There is a spirit of earnestness being developed in the contest between the various Y. M. C. A. membership teams that betokens results when the final race is made. Interest is fast developing and many teams are being added to the lists daily. Two teams have thus far failed to make any report, the Studebaker and the Maxwell. Engine trouble in the latter case is the reason for their failure to appear. The teams are going to be made of the best of the city, and it is an open secret these two teams are going to spring a surprise before the race is over and will be well up toward the front.

An Opportunity.

Just at this time an opportunity is given to some big broad-minded and public-spirited citizens to buy memberships for some deserving young men or boys. If you could watch the results of these teams, you would be boys as they hear their more fortunate mates tell of the good times at the Y. You would dig down in your pockets and help them to enjoy a similar good time at the same time, laying the foundation for bigger, better and broader men when these same boys grow up. There are any number of boys and young men who would be materially benefited by a membership in the association, but cannot afford it. Neither themselves or their parents. Here is the chance for some citizens with no children of their own, not personally desiring a membership, to do a great work and give untold pleasure to others by purchasing these deserving young fellows a membership. Think over and before it is too late select your representative and sign him up for a membership. Here is the chance for the best of surroundings that will leave their impression upon all his after life.

Team Standing.

Tuesday night the teams of the Y. M. C. A. closed the day with a total of one hundred and seven new members. The teams report that they have been working hard to get them as no payment has been paid on the dues. Up until this noon the Mitchell team, captained by H. C. R. had reached the five hundred mile mark followed closely by the Buick and Cadillac teams, which are eighty miles behind. The other teams are going at a fair rate of speed, registered at the time of the race. The Buick and Cadillac teams, which are eighty miles behind. The other teams are going at a fair rate of speed, registered at the time of the race.

Big Day Friday.

Friday will be the big day and all the members of the teams have not been able to get out the first part of the week will go out on this day. Two new teams will be organized, competing against the boys and the membership of the boys' department will be worked upon. For the two boys securing the largest number of new members a trip to Madison will be made. A prize of $100.00 will be given to the team which secures the largest number of new members. The teams have not canvassed the factories and surrounding country yet and Friday all this territory will be covered.

THE WOMEN'S COUNCIL

"Let Us Meet and Counsel Together."

(Edited by MRS. ABBIE HELMS.)

It is believed that by changing the name of this department its scope will be enlarged. All women's organizations of a civic or educational nature are asked to use these columns freely. This will include charity workers, and the various aid societies of church affiliation as well as the women's clubs of the city. Their notices will be carefully attended to and reports of their meetings given. They are asked to instruct their secretary to send in reports weekly and also to forward their year book to the editor. All material for use in the Wednesday issue should be in the hands of the editor early on Monday morning. Let us work faithfully for the moral and intellectual uplift of the city, always remembering that the two words, "Service and Counsel," are the mottoes of the women's movement of the day.

Address: 235 South Main street, Phone R. C. 26 Blue.

KING'S DAUGHTERS.
There was a meeting of this organization at the Baptist church Tuesday afternoon, when plans were made for attendance at the meeting of the state association which is to be held in Shelbygan Oct. 21.

THE STATE FEDERATION.
The meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs is being held this week at the Hotel Crosse as guests of the women's clubs of the city. The AM League, the Philomathian Club and the Summer Club of Home Economics are members of the State Federation and are entitled to send delegates.

President—Mrs. John Cunningham.
Vice President—Mrs. Jacobs.
Secretary—Mrs. O. E. O'Brien.
Treasurer—Mrs. Sam Smith.
The officers extend a cordial invitation to all ladies interested to join them in their work. Especially are members of the auxiliary urged to become members and help in the organization.

WORK OF THE CIVIC LEAGUE.
There are many things being done by the ladies of the Civic League for the betterment of the city. A brief mention in their reports. A case of this kind came to notice but a short time ago when the welfare committee became interested in a boy of eleven years with an aggravated case of adenoids, causing continual ill health. Through the kind offices of the committee, Dr. Kellar and Dr. Bennet were called in to examine the child and the visiting nurse provided the supplies necessary for the care of the patient. She also gave the attention so essential to a rapid recovery. One charitable third ward patron sent a fresh supply of milk daily for the little fellow and another provided fresh eggs. So at the present time he has re-entered school with every prospect of firmly established health. It is cases of this kind, which are often times not heard of outside of the parties interested, which makes our faith in human nature and makes us believe in the great tender heart of humanity.

COMING EVENTS.
The district committee of the House Economics, consisting of Mrs. A. B. West, Mrs. E. W. Fisher and Mrs. F. P. Smiley, are planning for a lecture from Miss Helen Johnson, who is president of the state Federation of Home Economics. It will probably be held in the High School building on or about the first week in November. It will be accompanied by a demonstration of a new fireproof safe for which there has been much interest by the country teachers in furnishing warm lunches to school children.

THE ART LEAGUE.
The meetings of this organization are supposed to be on the first and third Fridays of the month. But this month owing to the meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs being held this week, the first meeting of the league will be held on the third Friday. The programs of the year's work are ready and can be obtained by members of the club from the desk at the public library.

LECTURE BY JENKIN LLOYD JONES.
The Civic League are making plans to have Jenkin Lloyd Jones of Chicago come here about the last week in November to deliver his Peace Lecture. Rev. Jones has so many friends in this city that he is always greeted by a good audience, and this lecture, which is one of his best, has been given all over the country, and received with gratifying attention. The Civic League is to be congratulated for having secured this splendid offering for this city.

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION WORK.
The annual meeting of the Summer Club of Home Economics is held in March and is always made a special event by the club. This year its program is to be enlarged to take in a two days' session, part of it being university extension work, given by experts from Madison. The program has been arranged as yet, but will include demonstration of cooking and sewing as seem generally advisable. It will probably be held in the city hall and will include exhibits by the members on labor saving appliances in household work. The public will be invited to these demonstrations.

CIVIC LEAGUE.
The annual meeting of the Civic League was held at the city hall on Friday, Oct. 1, Mrs. F. S. Taylor presiding. The minutes of the September meeting as taken by Miss E. J. Patterson, secretary, were read. A report from the different committees in charge of the various activities of the league's work was then called for. Mrs. A. F. Hall, chairman of the Y. M. C. A. committee, gave a report of the city and correspondence with the over the city as a prospective organization and correspondence with the central office of the Y. M. C. A. She also reported letters from similar organizations in cities corresponding in size to Janesville. Mrs. Hall was asked by the league to arrange for the visit of a general secretary to the city as soon as possible.

Miss Mary Mott gave the treasurer's report for the year, showing the receipts being $127.75 and the disbursements $72.53. There was a small balance in the treasury at the beginning of the year, so that the present amount in the bank was $115.

there was a leakage at the fountain of the Civic League. Miss Helen Welch gave a report of the educational committee, showing the following:

1. Laws governing places of amusement.
2. School work of the community.
3. Laws regarding saloons.

The school work was ably covered by a report given by Prof. Buel in regard to the matter, which was read by Miss Welch.

In regard to amusements, she spoke of the censorship of the moving picture show, and hoped that the time would come when on one day a week a specially appropriate program of films for the instruction and amusement of the children would be given.

She also suggested as topics for the work of her committee "What Children Should Read" and "Music as a Means of Education."

The report of the nominating committee was then read by the chairman, Mrs. George Rummel, as follows:

Commissioners—Miss Gertrude Cobb, Miss Mary Barker, Mrs. J. R. Munger, Secretary—Miss Gertrude Cobb, Treasurer—Miss Sarah Sutherland.

First vice presidents—Mrs. A. V. Woodworth, Second ward—Mrs. J. T. Fitchett, Third ward—Mrs. P. A. Taylor.

Fourth ward—Mrs. Mary Hopkins. The list of officers was read unanimously, and after a few brief words of thanks and appreciation given by Mrs. Taylor the incoming chairman of the commission, Mrs. Percy Munger, took the chair.

A brief space had been asked in the afternoon's program by Mrs. John Cunningham, who introduced to the league Mr. Beattie, the new secretary of the Y. M. C. A. He spoke of the need of the co-operation of the women in the work of the Y. M. C. A.

He said that the ladies ought to know the aims and purposes of the organization and be able to help in suggestions for better service; that the mothers of the boys ought to have an intelligent supervision of their children's play in the association. He stated that there were several hundred men and boys rooming in the building all the time, and though the rooms were comfortable they were not attractive and might be greatly improved by a little attention from the ladies. Mrs. Cunningham, the new president of the Women's work in view of that fact, had asked the co-operation and help of the league in that line. She spoke of the early formation of a Mothers' club and the building of the boys' room in the building, which will occur next week.

The league voted to buy a god picture to donate to this boys' room in the Y. M. C. A. and Miss Sara Richardson was made chairman of the committee for its purchase.

Owing to some objection to the first Monday in the month as the next date of coming together, the meeting was adjourned till the second Monday of November.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.
The following report prepared by Prof. Buel was given by the committee on education in the annual meeting of the Civic League. It is so valuable, as giving a resume of the work of the schools, that it is given in full.

"The public schools have been a matter of our interest and attention since the Civic League was organized. The past year has marked progress in many lines of activity. In the high school the year witnessed the introduction of the elective system of studies. This plan enabled each student to choose one-half of the subjects he may wish to pursue. The result seems to have been in every way satisfactory. While in domestic science the number increased from ninety (90) in 1914 to one hundred seventy-one (171) this past year and 238 this present year. In agriculture twenty-eight (28) boys were the ones studying the subject of agriculture, but in 1913 the number reached fifty-three (53), while this year the agricultural classes show an enrollment of six hundred and thirty (630). The commercial department shows a uniform but steady growth each year. The present enrollment of two hundred forty-two (242) being the largest in the history of the school."

"This large showing of preference for the vocational subjects seems to indicate that the high school is meeting the real physical needs of the young people in our city in a manner which is not only practical but also profitable. The enrollment has increased by leaps and bounds in recent years. In 1913 there were enrolled in the high school during the month of September four hundred and fifty-nine (459) pupils. Last year in September the number was four hundred forty-nine (449), while this year the enrollment is about four hundred eighty-two (482), or about one hundred too many to be accommodated in the present quarters of the building. The city is face to face with the need of an addition to be built on to the high school building. The need is so great that it is not only a matter of wisdom to build a large vocational building on the rear and to the west of our present high school building and connect the two buildings by a passageway from each floor, but also the added room with the possibility of administering the high school system as a unit."

"Your committee is particularly gratified to report that the moral welfare of the young people in our high school is a matter of chief concern of our school board and high school faculty. In the general administration of the school proper chaperonage is given to the young people in every way possible whenever the young people are in the building or otherwise associated together as high school students. No group of young people are left unattended for an instant in the day from early morning until the doors close at night, and no evening function whatever is conducted in the school building or elsewhere under the auspices of the school without the presence of one and usually more of the high school teachers. The school authorities feel the necessity of having every school function, social or otherwise, conducted so that every parent may feel a sense of security in having his child under the safe influence of the high school."

"In past years more or less criticism was made upon the under-education of the high school literary societies. The membership in these societies was subject to pupil selection limited only by a scholarship requirement. Naturally the young people of the new members of the various organizations. This left certain worthy pupils out of these societies to their own disappointment and regret. The superior student and principal changed the form of these societies so that all pupils in the upper classes should be long, because of classification, to some literary society. This did away with the literary societies and still preserved the value of this form of literary work which under the right conditions should be encouraged and fostered."

"A new feature of the school work which created a great deal of interest both in the high school and also in the graded schools was the employment of the summer of the regular teacher of agriculture to supervise the home gardens and other agricultural activities of the pupils. Vacant lots and some gardens were brought into use and the house and the family vegetable supply but furnished a useful vocation for the summer vacation time of many a boy."

The school play grounds of the city were conducted under the same general plan as a year ago; swimming lessons were conducted for boys and girls separately during the morning hours. While the general play grounds were open every week day afternoon the school buildings too have been more frequently used by the general public. The Douglas school with its new well lighted kindergarten room has given to that part of the city an ideal place for educational gatherings. The teachers and pupils of that school have entertained the adults of the Douglas district on several enjoyable occasions. Large numbers of the patrons of the school responded to the invitation and came out and encouraged both pupils and teachers in their efforts towards an educational uplift in that part of the city."

The board of education installed a good lighting system in the Jackson school during the year. One large evening meeting was held in that building near the close of the year. The Webster school is planning this year to hold some parents-teachers meetings in the evening when the fathers will be free from work so that they may attend."

The school rooms of the Washington, Adams, Jefferson, Garfield, Lincoln and Douglas were in use one afternoon a week by the women of the respective neighborhoods for afternoon sewing and millinery classes. Advantage was taken of the fact that the rooms are vacant one-half of an afternoon a week while the children have gone to domestic science and manual training classes at the high school and industrial school buildings. These adult afternoon classes have proven very popular, as many of the women who could not go to the high school buildings to attend the evening class have been able to pick up the same line of instruction nearer their own homes."

The high school building was in constant use during the year. The basketball league from the various Sunday schools held its matches games in the high school gymnasium. The older girls of the high school had daily exercises in the high school gymnasium from 4 to 5:15 p. m. The open night of the girls' gymnasium was a pronounced success. Three teacher-parent meetings were held in the evening throughout the year. The regular high school basketball games were held here almost weekly throughout the season."

"The county training school held its regular six weeks' summer session and the county superintendent held his annual commencement exercises as well as his annual school board convention in this building."

"The commencement exercises were held in the building in June. Altogether the charge that school property is tied up and idle throughout most of the year does not apply to our high school building in any sense. No public building in the city is used so constantly and for such varied purposes."

"The industrial school has added many new features to its former activities. A strong commercial department has been added to its day school organization. A man teacher has been added to the force to instruct the older boys of the day school in both academic and industrial work. A class in gas engine and electric wiring has been organized. A good deal of telegraphy has taken up the work, while Miss Gagan has organized a class in salesmanship for the girls who are enrolled. The new law making attendance compulsory on all employed children one-half day a week between the ages of fourteen and sixteen whether employed in the home or elsewhere has greatly increased the attendance at the school. One hundred of those children who would otherwise be deprived of all school privileges."

"The night school has been largely expanded in its curriculum. A class in the study of French has made good progress in its study. Spanish and German will be offered this year to all who may desire to pursue these modern languages. Interest keeps up in the English work for foreign people. Many of our foreign young people are taught to read and write our own language, which goes far towards making more useful and contented citizens."

"Taking it all in all our schools are probably the greatest public institution when considered from the standpoint of the results achieved and the number of lives that have touched that our country possesses."

ANNIVERSARY OF NATIONAL SOCIETY OF DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION.

Mrs. E. O. Kimberley of this city was honored by an invitation to be present on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of this society. The celebration is to be held in the memorial continental hall on Monday, Oct. 11th at Washington, D. C. The exercises will include a program in the afternoon and reception in the evening. Mrs. Kimberley was one of the original charter members of which there were eighteen. Of these there are only nine living at present. Mrs. Kimberley was invited to take part in the afternoon program but not being able to be present has forwarded her reminiscences of the early days, which will be read on that occasion.

Songs Develop National Spirit.
It seems strange that the world has not done more with singing, that is with popular singing. In this regard we are far behind some of the other nations, for example, the Germans. They have many choral societies, in which they sing songs of the father land, and do much to develop the national spirit.

New Cause for Worry.

CHICAGO TEACHERS IN LABOR SQUABBLE

Question of Organized Labor is Very Bitter Among Education Men of Windy City.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Chicago, Oct. 6.—The American Federation of Labor will make a last ditch fight in behalf of the Chicago union of school teachers. Those influences which oppose the Chicago Teachers' Federation are today preparing their appeal from the temporary injunction restraining the Board of Education from carrying out the now famous Los Angeles rule expelling teachers who decline to leave the federation, and compelling all applicants for positions to sign a pledge that they will not become members of any similar organization.

Of course, if the higher court upholds the injunction, making it permanent, the matter will drop there with a glowing victory for organized labor. However, the higher court decides in favor of the Los Angeles rule, the entire matter will ultimately be decided at the polls.

Members of the Board of Education, appointed by the mayor, if he continues in office, men and women openly antagonistic to the teachers' union, labor has threatened to elect a mayor who will be favorable to the union.

Miss Margaret Haley, head of the union, openly charges that big business is back of the fight, on the federation, which comprises perhaps one-half of the $300 Chicago school teachers. Important Chicago interests hold, under very favorable terms, school lands in the heart of Chicago's business district. Under a 99-year lease they pay nominal rental on valuation much smaller than that placed on lands held in title of private individuals, in some instances directly adjoining the school owned lands.

The union school teachers, shortly after organization, moved for higher salaries. When told no money was available, they noted low rentals paid for school lands, and to the fact that many large corporations were under-taxed.

"Collect the proper rentals and taxes and the money will be available," they said.

They did more. They went before the legislature and the tax boards. They agitated at public meetings. They even went to State's Attorney Hoyne who is now considering alleged facts which would make union leaders want out before the grand jury.

The fight was further complicated by the religious issue, always a factor in the politics of Chicago. Factions appeared in the schools—anti-union against union teachers. The anti-union majority on the school board struck quick and hard. "Leave the federation or leave the schools," was the order to the teachers. Some obeyed. Some stood pat. Some, who had never belonged to the federation, and really preferred not to join the organization, when pressed were asked that they never would join, flatly refused to sign.

The teachers had won a salary increase, but it was administered by the board. "Sign a pledge to abandon the union or no salary increase," was the dictum. Again the courts were appealed to. Again a deadlock.

Enemies of the federation said: "The union has no place in the schools. It has disorganized the entire system. Teachers are no longer looking to the school head for orders, but to the union head. The teaching force is divided into cliques, and the entire school discipline is endangered."

Union leaders in and out of the schools met this with denials and by counter charges that the fight against the union teachers had been engineered by corporation lawyers and union-baiters who had become alarmed by the disclosures made by the union. The fight is now being waged in school land leases and contracts.

Fathers and mothers and even children have been drawn into the fight on one side or the other. There is no such word as neutrality. And the most unique labor war in the history of the Central West is in full swing.

Gracious Manners.
The charm of gracious manner and consideration for other human beings is a quality that develops rapidly if given half a chance. The woman who is always kind creates an atmosphere of loveliness that is like a halo about her head. If you are naturally shy and reticent it is all the more necessary that you should endeavor to shine a bit. It is not lack of pleasant thoughts that worries the self-conscious, but the fear of giving expression to them. You must try to make yourself companionable to others.

One Hundred Books Sent to Association Building for Convenience of Members.

In cooperation with the Y. M. C. A., the public library has sent a number of books to the association building for the use of the members. These books may either be read at the Y. M. C. A. library or may be drawn out by the members of the association on their regular library cards, which are registered at the public library. Since the Y. M. C. MAJESTIC PRESENTS
REMARKABLE DRAMA

Bessie Barriscale Shown Yesterday in "Cup of Life."

Such extraordinary pictures as "The Cup of Life" are welcome; a story of real life, handled with such skill as to be entirely wholesome, yet pointing a world-wide truth, combined with it scenes that are a delight to the eye, and character interpretation that seems almost flawless.

It was the boast of the Majestic's advertising that this was the sort of pictures that comprise the "best movies" in New York and Chicago, and it can readily be believed. No expense seemed to be spared to provide most lavish settings for the scenes; the story was carried along with intense interest, and the entire cast was able and fitted to their roles.

'DRESS UP' CAMPAIGN TO BE INAUGURATED

Men to Be Urged to Take More Pride in Their Personal Appearance and "Dress Up" During Week October 9th to 16th.

There has been projected in Janesville a campaign of unique interest, as well as of importance to all men. It is called a "Dress Up" campaign, and the aim is to interest men in wearing good clothing and generally "sprucing up" for a certain week.

It should be easy to interest men in such a campaign. The American men are known as the best dressers in the world. They have generally a spic and span appearance, even in business hours, that is attained by the men of other lands only when attired for formal social events. They take pride in their appearance, and it is a justifiable pride. It is "good business" too, for the person who has to do business with a man who is careful of his appearance is likely to gain the impression that he is just as careful of his business and that in purchasing from him or in transacting any other kind of business with him he will receive the same careful attention which he gives his appearance. The effect upon the wearer of good clothing is well known. It makes him more confident of his ability, less timid about meeting men of importance in business and gives him a general feeling of satisfaction and peace of mind that conduces to success.

It cannot be denied that in the past two years men have been more economical in matters of dress than they were formerly. But times have become better. We have more money now than anyone else in the world. We are doing more business than any one else in the world. We will have this fall crops so abundant that they alone will give us a front place among the nations of the world. As wealth is concerned, the "Dress Up" campaign should be engaged in by every one, makers, dealers and wearers. There is every reason to believe that this novel idea will be a success.

If Coffee Came in Capsules

as its drug, caffeine, is frequently sold, coffee drinkers would wake up to the fact that coffee is not a food but a drug.

Yet in spite of the warnings of reputable physicians, many persons fail to realize the harmful effects of caffeine, coffee's subtle, habit-forming drug. Taken regularly this coffee drug—the frequent cause of nervousness, heart-flutter, headache and other ailments—sooner or later gets its hold.

Look coffee in the face—read what physicians and health experts say: (Names on application)

"Coffee is a dope and narcotic almost equal to opium. Slowly but surely it gets control of its victim and holds him in its grasp a pitiful, helpless victim."

"Coffee is a drug. Those addicted to its use are drug addicts."

"Some people get the craving for alcohol by first taking tea or coffee."

"They (the tea and coffee drugs) are comparable to opium in that they induce a habit and should be avoided."

Right now, Mr. Coffee Drinker, is the time to find out whether or not coffee has a hold on you. It's simple and easy—quit coffee ten days and use Neighbor Told Her Cure for Lumbago.

Rheumatism and lumbago are awful things and cause pain and misery, but Foley Kidney Pills can rout them.

Mrs. G. J. Ewald, Dunbar Mills, Ill., writes the following letter: "I was stricken down with lumbago and was unable to turn myself in bed. A neighbor brought me a half bottle of Foley Kidney Pills, and said she had been similarly afflicted and that they had helped her. So I tried them and was completely relieved by the use of two or three bottles. I have had splendid success with them and have never known them to fail. I must heartily recommend Foley Kidney Pills."

Foley Kidney Pills tone up weak, inactive, sluggish kidneys, rid the body of poisons, give appetite, energy and refreshing sleep after pain. Don't neglect kidney trouble. Remove the cause with Foley Kidney Pills.

How much better to give the whole attention to what one is doing, but how many do it? The intentions may be of the best, but soon one may be thinking what will be done at the next meeting, wondering what opportunities there are for securing a new suit at a reduced price, or what someone said last night; and the time is passing and little work or study accomplished.—Christian Science Monitor.

Lime-Loss in Tuberculosis

In the Journal of the American Medical Association (January 17, 1914) was the following: "It has been many times stated that in tuberculosis or in the pre-tuberculous stage an increased amount of calcium (lime) is lost, both in the urine and feces. In fact, a demineralization has been thought to be a forerunner in the development of tuberculosis."

"Forced feeding of tuberculous patients and the enormous amount of eggs and milk once given such patients are not now considered advisable. A large number of physicians who are specialists in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis, believe that tuberculosis is due to a loss of lime from the system. The success of Ekmann's Alternative in the treatment of this disease may be due, in part, to the fact that it contains a lime salt so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated."

Always we have urged users of Ekmann's Alternative to attend strictly to matters of food.

In addition to rest and proper diet, some effective remedial agent seems to be needed, and in numerous cases of apparent recovery from tuberculosis and kindred throat and bronchial affections Ekmann's Alternative has supplied this need.

It does not contain opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so it is safe to try. Your druggist has it on hand or it can be got from us direct. Write to Ekmann Laboratory, Philadelphia.

A Real Flesh Builder For Thin People

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What because of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight and ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks, their functions of their digestive organs, their functions of assimilation, are probably sadly out of gear and need reconstruction. Cut out the foolish foods and funny savoury diets. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Let the scales be the judge. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy "stay-theres" may be the net result. Sargol aims to charge weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh red blood corpuscles—to give the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food, to prepare it for the blood in an easily assimilated form. Thin people tell how they have gained all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol and say that the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a careful combination of six of the best stimulative elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and all good druggists in this vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back—found in every large package.—Advertisement.

The Battle-Cry

Go! Juanita would go if it were necessary to run a gantlet of all the combined forces of the Haves and McBrars. Her heart ached for the widow and the boys, but for Dawn the ache was as deeply poignant as it could have been for a little sister of her own.

At last they reached the McNash cabin and found gathered about it a score of figures with sullen and scowling faces.

From the barn came the screech of saw and rat-tat of hammer, where those whose knack ran into carpentry were fashioning the box which was to serve in lieu of a casket.

There was no fire now, and the cabin was very dark. In a deeply shadowed corner lay Fletch McNash, made visible by the white sheet that covered him.

Juanita had come in silently, and for a moment thought that no one else was there. The younger children had been sent away, and the neighbors remained outside with rough sense of consideration.

There, in a squat chair near the cold hearth, sat Mrs. McNash, her back turned to the room. She was leaning forward and gazing ahead with unseeing eyes. Dawn was kneeling ing at her side with both arms about her mother's drooping shoulders.

"Are You a Bondsman to Bad Anse—Have?"

Juanita bent and impulsively kissed the withered face, but the woman only stirred a little, like a half-wakened sleeper, and looked stolidly up. After a while she spoke in the lifeless, far-away tone of utter lethargy.

"Et y'd like ter see him, jest lift up ther sheet. He's a-layin' thar." Then once more she sank back into the coma of her staring at the hearth with its dead ashes.

Then the door opened, letting in two men, and in them Juanita recognized Jeb McNash and Bad Anse Havey.

At their coming Dawn looked up, drawing away from the embrace of the older girl, and retreated silently to a corner, as though ashamed of having been discovered in tears. For a few moments there was silence in the room, complete except for the rap of Jeb's pipe when he knocked out its ashes against the chimney.

Bad Anse stood with folded arms in the dim-light and gave no sign that he had recognized the presence of the "turrin' woman."

The boy jerked his head toward the hearth and said in a strained, hard voice: "Set ye a cheer, Anse," and after that, no one spoke. Jeb's thin but muscular chest rose and fell to the swell of heavy breathing and his face was wrapped black in a scowl that made his eyes smolder and his lips snarl. Juanita had dropped back to one of the beds with Dawn's face buried in her lap.

Then, as if rousing from a long dream, Mrs. McNash looked up, and for the first time appeared to realize that her son and his companion had entered the place.

The dead blankness left her pupils, and into them leaped a hateful fire. Her voice came in shrill and high-pitched questioning: "Wall, Jeb, hev ye got him yet?"

The boy only shook his head and glowered at the wall, while his mother's voice rose almost to a scream.

"Hain't ye a gonn' ter do nothin'?" Thar lays yore pap what nader harmed no man, shot down cold-blooded. Don't ye hear him a-callin' on yer ter settle his blood score? Air ye skeered? Ther spirit of him that fathered ye's a-pleadin' with ye—an' ye sets still in yore cheer!"

Juanita felt the slender figure in her embrace shudder at the lashing invective that fell from the mother's lips. She saw the boy's face whiten; saw him rise and turn to Bad Anse Havey, half in ferocity, half in pleading.

"Maw's right, Anse," he doggedly declared. "I kaint' tarry hiar no longer. He blongs ter me. I've got ter go out an' kill him. Ther haint' but one thing a-stoppin' me now," he added helplessly. "I don't know who did it; I haint' got no notion."

He stood before the clan chief, and the latter rose and laid one hand on the shoulder which had begun to tremble. Man and boy looked at each other, eye to eye, then the elder of the two began to speak.

"Jeb, I don't want ye to think I don't feel for ye, but ye don't know who the feller is, an' ye can't hardly go shootin' permiscuous. Ye've got to bide your time."

"But," interrupted the boy tensely, "you knows. You knows everything hyarabouts. In heaven's name, Anse, I haint' askin' nothin' out of ye but jest one word. Jest speak one name, thet's all I needs."

The mother had dropped back into her stupor again, and her son stood there, his broganed feet wide apart and his whole body rigid and tense with passion.

Anse Havey once more shook his head.

"No, Jeb," he said quietly; "I don't know—not yet. The McBrars acted on suspicion—an' they killed the wrong man. Ye ain't seekin' to do likewise, be ye? Ye ain't quite twenty-one, Jeb, an' I'm the head of the family. I reckon ye'd better take counsel of me, boy. I ain't bent on deludin' ye, an' ye can trust me. Ye've got to give me your hand, Jeb, that until ye're plumb, everlastingly sartain who got your pa, ye won't raise your gun againt' any man."

The boy sank down into his chair, and bowed his head in his hands, while his finger-nails bit into his temples. Even Juanita Holland had felt the effect of Havey's wonderfully quieting voice. Finally Jeb McNash raised his face.

"An' will ye give me yore hand, Anse Havey, that if ye finds him out afore I do, ye'll tell me thet man's name?"

"I ain't never turned my back on a kinsman yet, Jeb," said Anse gravely.

The boy nodded his acquiescence and hurriedly left the room. Juanita gently lifted Dawn's head from her lap and went forward to the hearth.

She had listened in silence, outraged at this callous talk and this private usurpation of powers of life and death. Now it seemed to her that to remain silent longer was almost to become an accomplice.

Something in her grew rigid. She saw the bent and lethargic figure of the bereaved wife and the stark, sheeted body of the feud's last victim. Before her stood the man more than anyone else responsible for such conditions.

"Mr. Havey," she said, as her voice grew coldly purposeful with the ring of challenge, "I have been told that you did not mean to let me stay here; that you did not intend to give these poor children the chance to grow straight and decent."

She paused, because so much was struggling indignantly for utterance that she found composure very difficult. And as she paused she heard him inquire in an ironically quiet voice: "Who told ye that?"

"Never mind who told me. I haven't come here to answer your questions. I came too these feud-cursed hills to fight conditions for which you stand as sponsor and patron saint. I came here to try to give the children release, from ignorance—because ignorance makes them easy tools and dupes for murder lords—like you."

"An' ther tumult of spirit halted her and she heard Dawn sobbing with grief and fright on the bed."

"Are ye through?" inquired Anse Havey. His voice had the flinty quiet of cruelly repressed passion, and his face had whitened, but he had not moved.

"No, I'm not through," she went on with rising vehemence. "I came here seeking to interfere with no man's affairs—wishing only to give your people, without price, what they are entitled to—the light that all the rest of the world enjoys. I found the community bound hand and foot in slavery to two men of a like stripe. I found their hirelings murdering each other from ambush. I'm only a woman, but I carry the credentials of decency and civilization. You two men have everything else—everything except decency and civilization. You and Milt McBrar!"

He had listened while the muscles of his jaws stood out in cramped tension and the veins began to cord themselves on his temples. Now he said in a low voice, between his teeth: "By heaven, don't liken me to Milt McBrar!"

The girl laughed a little hysterically and wildly, then swept on: "I do liken you to Milt McBrar. What in heaven's name is the difference between you? He kills your vassals and you kill his. Both of you do it by the proxy of hirelings and from ambush. In this house a man lies dead—dead for the quarrel of his own, but because of your quarrel with Milt McBrar. But it seems that's not enough. You must enlist the son of the dead man into a life that will have to gaze down at the rigid body of the dead man. At last he came and took his place squarely before her by the hearth, both hands thrust deep into his coat-pockets. A long black lock fell over his forehead and he impatiently shook it back.

"In the first place," he began in his deliberate voice, "ye've said some things that I doubt not ye believe to be true, but they're most all of 'em lies."

He flung back his head and looked squarely down at her, his eyes narrow and snapping, but with his voice pitched to a low cadence. "Ye've said things that, since ye're a woman, I ain't got any way of answerin'. The only thing I asks is thet ye harken to what I want to say."

"Go on; I'm listening with humble attention."

"Ye've called me a murderer an' a hirer of murderers. That's a lie. I've never killed no man that didn't have his face t'ords me, nor one that wasn't armed. I've never hired any man killed."

"Ye've likened me to Milt McBrar. Thet was a lie, too. Ye've said some right bitter things, an' I can't answer 'em. If ye was a man I could."

"And if I were a man, what would you say to me?" she inquired.

"I reckon"—his words came with an icy coldness—"I'd be pretty liable to tell ye to eternally go to hell."

"And if I were a man," she promptly retorted, "I'd endeavor with every ounce of manhood I had in me to see that you and the others like you did go there. I'd try to see that you went the appropriate way—through the trap of the gallows."

She saw his attitude stiffen and his face flush brick-red to the cheekbones. But after a few seconds she heard him speak with a fair counterfeit of amusement.

"Well, it 'pears like we've both got to be right smart disappointed—on account of your bein' a woman."

And this time it was she who flushed.

"I don't hardly know why I'm takin' the trouble to make any statement to ye," Havey went on. "It ain't hardly worth while. Ye came up here with your mind fixed. Ye've read a lot of hearsay stuff in newspapers, an' facts ain't hardly apt to count for much. I reckon afore ye decides to hang me ye'll let me have my day in court, won't ye?"

the same end for him. You bind him apprentice to your merciless code of murder."

Her hands were clenched and her eyes burning with her tempest of rage. When she stopped speaking the man inquired once again: "Are ye through now?" But Juanita threw both her hands out and continued:

"You have taken the boy—very well. I mean to take the girl. I shall try to undo in her and in her children the evil you will do her brother. I shall try to give the family one unblighted branch. Unless you kill me, I shall stay here and fight. I'll fight you and your enemy McBrar alike, because you are only two sides of the same coin. I'll try to take the ground out from under your feet and leave you no standing room outside a state's prison. Dawn shall learn the things that will, some day, set this country free."

Mrs. McNash was looking up vaguely, but her thoughts were still far away, and this outpouring of speech near at hand meant little to her.

Juanita, as she finished her wild peroration, fell suddenly to trembling. Her strength seemed to have gone out of her words. Her knees seemed too weak to support her, and for the first time in her life, as she looked into the face of Anse Havey, ominously blanched with rage, she was physically afraid of a man.

His eyes seemed to pierce her with the stabs of rapiers, and in his quiet self-repression was something ominous. For a moment he did not permit himself to speak, then he thrust a chair forward and said in a level, toneless sort of voice: "If ye're all through now, maybe ye'd better sit down. Such eloquence as that's liable ter tire ye out right smartly."

The girl made no move to take the chair, and Anse Havey took one step forward and pointed to it. This time his voice came quick and sharp, like the crack of a mule-whip.

"Sit down, I tell ye. I've got just a few words ter say my own self."

CHAPTER X.

For a few moments Bad Anse Havey did not speak, and Juanita dropped almost limply into the chair he had pushed forward. Havey paced the narrow length of the room, pausing once

The apothecary was urbanely dispensing a postal card to a "Rapper" when a Amazonian negress in a calico wrapper of morning glory pattern entered and bulked herself against the counter.

"I wants a 'description' filled foh half a dozen five-ounce quinine pills," she announced.

"Why, woman, that'll would paralyze an ox; what's the matter with you?" asked the astonished chemist.

"Nothin' do matter wif me," she answered. "It's foh mah daughter, an' she's some heft. Gladys she takes afrah me. Mah husband's bench-kneed and ineffectual."

"But quinine comes in grains, not ounces."

ALEXANDER AND SPEAKER ARE MAIN TOWERS OF STRENGTH IN WORLD SERIES.

BUT LITTLE ADVANTAGE

Phillies Are Rookies as Compared to the Red Sox.—Phillies Have Good Corps of Pitchers.

New York, Oct. 6.—In nearly every series for the world's baseball championship some player on each of the contending teams has been picked by the fans as a tower of strength in the premier title of the season. In the mind's eye of the baseball public, he stood head and shoulders above his co-workers. This year's contest for the premier title of the season will prove no exception to this accepted fact. In looking over the list of eligibles for the coming battle between the Philadelphia Nationals and the Boston Red Sox, Alexander and Speaker naturally are the first to strike the eyes of even the casual observer as the ones who may furnish the star plays of the coming contest. Many other players, however, on both sides have shown remarkable aptitude to go the right thing at the right time during the long season's grind. Quick thinking and fast action are the essentials which make great baseball players. While the two players mentioned have shown wonderful control and effectiveness in their positions, a great deal should be said about many others who, while not so prominent, have been equally efficient in their pennant winning work this season either at bat, on the path, or in the field.

In the minds of many baseball experts, Manager Moran's feat of making a supposedly mediocre team a pennant winning organization is one of the greatest achievements that has been accomplished last year by George Stallings with the Boston Braves. The Moramoren are virtually a "cast of thousands" of players who were let out by other major league clubs. Captain Luders was once with the Chicago Nationals; Killifer was tried by St. Paul and later by Adams was with the New York Giants for a short time. Demaree came from the Giants and McQuillen played with Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. Niekro was with the Boston Braves and Whitted came from the Braves. Stock was transferred to Philadelphia by New York. He was once with St. Louis and later with Chicago. The team is a patchwork of players who have been let out by other major league clubs. Stock was transferred to Philadelphia by New York. He was once with St. Louis and later with Chicago. The team is a patchwork of players who have been let out by other major league clubs.

Alexander, Moyer and Rixey, Challinors and Hancock are the only members of the team who grew into the national league material while with the club. Tincup, Baumgartner and Weiser are youngsters who have yet to win regular places on the team.

Alexander, the work in the box during the season has placed him in the limelight as the star pitcher of the National League and the backbone of the Quaker City team. If the series goes to the limit of seven games, Alexander, it is expected, will be on the mound in at least three games, beginning with the opening match. After he had won his first game, a few days ago, Alexander, when asked what he would do in the world's series, replied: "Just whatever Manager Moran tells me. I have been well supported by my teammates and I must say they have saved me frequently. Boston may boast of some great hitters but I think we have some fence busters on the Phillies who will equal the Boston sluggers."

With Moyer, Demaree, McQuillen, Challinors and Rixey on his pitching staff, Manager Moran feels that he has a formidable array of boxmen to back up Alexander in attacking the Red Sox defense. The infield, composed of Luders, Niekro, Hancock and Stock is a strong combination and Cravath, Paskert and Whitted are well able to care of the outergarden.

Captain Luders stands second in the batting list of the National League and with Cravath, Whitted, Stock, Paskert and Niekro the hitting of the Moramoren team shows considerable promise. Should the majority of games be played on the Philadelphia grounds, that the park with its short fences will suit the home hitters much better than the visitors is the opinion shared in by many close followers of the game.

Including Manager Moran, five members of the Philadelphia Nationals have been members of former world series winners. These are Demaree, Whitted, Becker and Ducey. Moran was with the Chicago Cubs when Frank Chance was manager of the National League pennant winners. Demaree was with the New York Giants in 1913. Whitted played with the Boston Braves last year. Beals Becker fielded for the New York Giants in 1911 and 1912 and Ducey was with the Boston Braves last year.

The Red Sox. Compared with their Philadelphia opponents the roster of the Boston Red Sox includes many world's series winning veterans which naturally gives the New England team the advantage at least of experience. Ten of the players who were on the championship eligible list for Boston three years ago are still wearing the Lannin uniform. Jack Barry who was with the Athletics of Philadelphia through victory and defeat is a national help this year. Only two of the old pitchers, Wood and Collins, are now with the team. The former, however, may not be called upon during the coming conflict while the veteran southpaw, Collins, has not been able to reach the standard of merit be attained in previous years. Manager Carrigan has a fine staff from which to select moundmen and it looks as though the bulk of the work in this department will be entrusted to Leonard, Shore, Foster and Ruth during the series. Shore and Foster are right-handers and the other two are left-hand twirlers. Then there are Gregg and Mays, who, with Collins and Wood, form a strong reserve to be called upon in case it becomes necessary. Ruth and Gregg stand among the 300 hitters this season, while Leonard, Wood and Foster also have proven themselves to be very useful batters. Certainly Carrigan has no need to worry as to the strength or ability of his pitching force.

This Speaker, the player most talked of on the Red Sox team, together with Lewis and Hooper, make up the great outfield, considered by many to be the best in the country. These three have been playing together for several years and understand each other so well that there is never a hitch or jolt to mar the smoothness of their play. Speaker, of course, is the pillar of strength on the team and while he has not been credited with a home run hit this season, his batting average of .332 speaks for itself. Twenty-four two-baggers and twelve three-base smashes in addition to one hundred and seventy-one singles make up the sum of bingles as credited to the centerfielder, so far as the records go this year. These, together with seventeen sacrifice hits and twenty-eight stolen bases, as well as a fielding average of .975 testify to the usefulness of the big Texan, who at bat and in the field has earned a place among the greatest players in the history of the national game.

Lewis a Veteran. Left-fielder Lewis, who has been with the team half a dozen years, also has a fine season's record. With a fielding average of .938, Lewis made one hundred and fifty-six base hits, twenty-nine doubles, seven three baggers, two homers, sacrificed twenty-nine times and stole fourteen bases. His batting average is .285.

Hooper, the other member of the outfield, has a fielding average of .974. His contributions with the stick include one hundred and thirty singles, eighteen doubles, fourteen triples, two circuit swallows, and sixteen sacrifice hits, a batting average of .292. Besides he pilfered bases seventeen times.

As to the infield of three years ago, Carrigan and Wagner still remain, but the latter is not likely to be seen in the coming series. Gardner at third base, however, is well to the fore among the hitters. Always dangerous with the bat, he is a first class fielder with an average of .923.

The Red Sox did not "find themselves" as a league-leading combination until the accession of Barry. His conversion from shortstop to second base was the deciding factor in Boston's progress pennantward.

On the Infield. The coming of Barry resulted in an unusual alignment of key-stone combinations. As preparation against accidents, Manager Carrigan has an interchangeable combination in the infield. Four short-stops are available; Scott, who plays the position regularly; Janvin, his understudy; Barry, who played a star game in that position for so many years with the Athletics; and Heinie Wagner. Red Sox regular at short in the world series of 1912. The three latter men are available also as finished second basemen, and Janvin and Barry can bring experience to relief of Gardner at third base. If necessary, first base is protected by the reversible pair, Hobitzel and Gainer. Both are good fielders, but Hobitzel is stronger as a batter against right hand pitchers, while Gainer gets best batting results off the delivery of left-handers.

Little Advantage. Offensively and defensively there appears to be little advantage for either the Boston Americans or the Philadelphia Nationals, in the catching departments. In the coming world's series, both the Red Sox and the Phillies have a trio of backstops who are far above the ordinary in ability in this particular feature of the game. The American League champions in Manager Carrigan, Cady and Thomas have three experienced catchers who are thoroughly at home behind the plate and familiar with every detail of the position. Killifer is the veteran of the Phillies' catching force, but Burns has shown during the past season, that he is not far behind his chief in all-round ability, while Adams, the third string catcher, is a youngster, who, in his few try-outs, has given promise of measuring up to the standards set by his two superiors in the near future.

While experience counts for much in the work behind the plate, it is not always the veterans who shine in the big baseball series. If this was the case the Americans would have a wide margin of reserve strength since Carrigan and Cady both figured prominently in the famous eight-game struggle between the Giants and the Red Sox in 1912, whereas none of the Phillies' catchers have figured in a fight for the premier pennant of the diamond game. Thus it can be seen that so far as experience is concerned the Red Sox have Carrigan and Cady to the Phillies' Killifer, Burns and Thomas, are about equal in this respect while Moran's third-eligible is an unknown quantity.

The Dope Figures. So far as the figures for the season's work can be used for a basis of comparison, however, there is nothing to indicate that much difference of ability exists in the actual work of the players under consideration. Killifer has caught a majority of the games played by the Phillies this year, with Burns filling in as emergency and relief catcher. The former has a fielding average of .973 and batted .247 while Burns has batted one point above Killifer's average and fielded four points below. Adams' record fails to show participation in play for the pennant.

For Boston Cady and Thomas have done the major part of the backstopping although Manager Carrigan has handled the delivery of the left handers from time to time. Cady is the best of the trio in judgment, can be based on the season's unofficial averages. In something over seventy games he has batted .277 and fielded .975. Thomas, in about an equal number of games, has fielded .971 and batted .231. Carrigan has received credit for playing in a little more than half the number of games that Cady and Thomas have officiated in and his averages are: Fielding, .970; batting, .207.

There ought to be some easy picking in store for the White Sox in that city series with the Cubs, which team is now occupying a tail-end position in the National League. The Brenahan regime has not been very successful, and there is little chance of his beating the Sox in the clash during the days that the world's series is in progress. There is never any doubt of the crowds in Chicago when the Sox and Sox meet. The Sox have an enormous following, and this is augmented by that element in Chicago which always is hilarious when the Cubs finish down in the race and when the Sox beat them. So the players are sure to get handsome sums to divide between them.

WHITE'S PILEDRIVER STOPS MAT BALDWIN

Dillon Whips Savage.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Boston, Mass., Oct. 6.—Charley White of Chicago, knocked out Matty Baldwin, favored eastern lightweight, in the first round of their bout here last night. White, with his sledge hammer left, ended Baldwin's brilliant career in a little over two and a half minutes. When the "knock-down" punch came Baldwin, bewildered, sat down, and at the count of nine got up and staggered around the ring. White refused to inflict further punishment and sparred with the helpless boxer until Baldwin's seconds threw in the sponge and the hour was stopped.

Dillon Wins. New York, Oct. 6.—Jack Dillon, the Indianapolis man-killer, won a decisive victory in ten rounds over Jim Savage. Dillon played for the body of his heavier opponent and sent Savage to the mat twice.

Fight a Draw. Arkon, O., Willie Beecher and Milburn Saylor, fought twelve terrific rounds to a draw last night.

Chaney Is Winner. Philadelphia, Oct. 6.—George Chaney, the knockout king of the featherweights, gave Eddie Morgan a cruel defeat in a six round bout here last night. Morgan's gameness saved him from a knockout.

Dove Is Defeated. Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 6.—Pal Moore, bantamweight, defeated Jack Doyle of New York in six rounds of vicious milling here last night.

Why Does a Boy Feel So Big In His First Pair of Suspenders?

For the same reason that his Dad feels so much better Sunday morning after a bath, a shave and a tog-out in his go-to-meeting duds.

It's part of the make-up of the human animal.

Carlyle wrote a book about clothes. But it pretty much simmers down to the idea that we can make of ourselves what we will by dressing and thinking the part.

I know that when I land inside a neatly fitting suit, correct in fashion and expertly tailored, I feel like a very decidedly different specimen from the sloppy-weather, wrinkly-coated individual who often, in the daily hurly-burly, goes around in the guise of yours truly.

My mind and soul perk up with the dolling out and I really believe my whole physical machinery keys to a new standard of efficiency.

Why?

Because good clothes touch the main-spring of our ambition, which is pride, and set all the wheels whirling.

I used to wonder why the dear, good woman o'er the kitchen sink looked so vastly different when in evening dress. She was the same woman—that is, she answered to the same name.

But I know now that in a subtle way she was a changed woman, a kind of feminine counterpart of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, minus Hyde's badness. "Fine feathers" had brought into action those latent forces which converted her into a "fine bird"—though in the kitchen you might have thought her a garden variety.

It's so with all of us; men, women, children.

Clothing doesn't make the man, but if it's the right kind, it props him up, stimulates his self-esteem, gives him a filip of confidence.

Not to dress well, therefore, is like deliberately to handicap yourself in the race of life.

Why do it?

Why not take full advantage of opportunity?
